Mr. Naccache has over twelve years of business law experience. He serves a diverse clientele, from Fortune 500s to SMBs, both local and multinational, many of which are publicly traded, as well as financial institutions and health professionals.

Patrick regularly participates in the drafting and negotiation of commercial and corporate agreements, as well as in the non-litigious settlement of commercial and shareholder disputes. He supports clients on international expansion into Canada and has led various and diverse business acquisitions. He has advised clients on public offerings and other transactions on the public markets.

Patrick practices in both French and English. He is known for his creative, personalized and reasoned advice, as well as his business acumen and his knack for getting things done.
